2020 ANNUAL REPORT AND
SOCIAL BALANCE

SUSTAINABLE GOALS

A social front against COVID-19

The year 2020 has been a very difficult one. An unprecedented year marked by health, social and economic crises caused by the COVID-19 pandemic. Faced with this exceptional scenario, from the very beginning the ABD Welfare and Development Association has worked to build a social front to combat these circumstances and to prevent even more devastating consequences for people in vulnerable situations.

With COVID-19, we have been challenged by the emergencies experienced by the families and people we serve. Our commitment to all of them pushed us to quickly adapt to be able to provide remote care, so that nobody would be left behind.

Furthermore, we implemented a number of new resources:

- ✦ A primary care centre for homeless people with substance abuse problems.
- ✦ A social emergency facility to host families in vulnerable situations.
- ✦ COVID-specialized teams at the home care services and residences.
- ✦ Four residential apartments for single-mother families.
- ✦ The #yositeveo donation campaign to provide financial support to families who are unable to cover their basic needs.

It never rains but it pours

The exceptional nature of these times has brought out the best in our vocation. Professionals, volunteers, and all of us who form part of the entity's social base have been rowing in the same direction. Together we have worked to guarantee rights. We have responded to the emergency without losing sight of the importance of activism, the empowerment of people, and mutual aid.

The pandemic has only accentuated systemic inequalities. It never rains but it pours. The global uncertainties of 2020 and the coming years require welcoming, compassionate, shared and supportive responses that guarantee rights, reduce inequalities, and lead us toward the world we want.

Almost forty years of social commitment

The ABD Welfare and Development Association is a non-governmental and non-profit organization that was established in the 1980s, when drug use and the AIDS epidemic were wreaking havoc among the younger populations. In this context, a group of professionals and volunteers came together to offer care to drug users, their families, and the surrounding neighbourhoods. Today, ABD continues to work to reduce inequalities and social and health-related vulnerability through a wide range of actions.

ABD's social action is cross-societal, as we support individuals and communities experiencing very diverse situations: physical and intellectual dependence; mental, physical and emotional health problems; a lack of basic necessities, such as housing or electricity; gender violence and child abuse; the mere fact of growing old or migrating to another country; drug use; discrimination based on gender, ethnicity or origin; or a lack of access to services, among others.

Common strategies to address major social challenges

Our purpose is to contribute to the empowerment of individuals, groups and communities suffering from exclusion processes, to enhance their capacities, and defend their rights. We believe in the need to develop common strategies and, therefore, ABD acceded to the 2030 Agenda, a comprehensive and multidimensional project that sets out a series of sustainable development goals aimed at addressing the major social challenges and leading us toward the world we want.

FINANCIAL VOLUME

During the COVID-19 crisis, we launched the #yositeveo campaign to provide financial support to families who, at the most difficult times of the pandemic, could not survive with a minimum of dignity and self-sufficiency. The initiative remains active because as time goes on, government aid does not necessarily reach everyone in need or is not sufficient.
